Transfer pricing, indirect taxes and cross-border transactions: What you need to know

Join our international experts for an insightful webinar that explores the intricate relationship between transfer pricing and indirect taxes, namely VAT and customs duties.

As global supply chains evolve and regulatory landscapes shift, particularly in the wake of Brexit and ongoing trade policy developments, understanding the interaction between these tax regimes is crucial for multinational businesses.

In our webinar, we'll look at how VAT and similar indirect taxes typically apply to intercompany transactions, highlighting common compliance challenges and the impact of recent case law that could affect the current approach. We'll then discuss how transfer pricing influences indirect tax and customs valuation costs before reflecting on practical strategies to manage compliance and improve tax outcomes.
